LOGAN'S RECEPTION.

CARSON TURNS OUT EN MASSE TO HEAR THE BLACK EAGLE.

The Opera House Packed with People.

SPEECHES BY JUDGE HAWLEY, GEN. LOGAN, AND GOV. ALGER.

Gov. Adams Takes no Part in the Reception.

General Logan arrived in the city last evening at 7 o'clock, having been driven down the Clear creek grade by Senator Stewart. Immediately following was Dr. Lee with Mrs. Logan. The rest of the party came driving leisurely behind, and all alighted at the Arlington House. As the Senator and Mrs. Logan made their appearance the bells of the city began ringing and crowds gathered on the sidewalks to cheer the General.

AT THE OPERA HOUSE.

After the supper at Senator Stewart's the party repaired to the Opera House, where the public reception was held. The place was beautifully decorated with flags, streamers and flowers, and over the center of the stage in letters was the word "Logan" in letters two feet long. The Reception committee occupied seats on the stage. The Opera House was crowded with people, every inch of room being occupied from pit to dome.

The party entered at 8:30 and after reaching the stage Judge Hawley addressed them as follows: Fellow citizens, we have met tonight to welcome an honored and distinguished citizen of the United States. One who has been known throughout the country as a brave and distinguished soldier, an able Statesman and an honest man. I introduce General John Logan, the "Black Eagle" of Illinois. [Cheers] On behalf of the citizens of Carson I welcome you to the battle-borne State whose Capital you are now in. We welcome you as a Statesman and Senator of a Sovereign State. We welcome you as a distinguished citizen who has been true to the country, your family, your friends and the grand old flag [Cheers]. One who has helped fight the battles of the country and kept pace to the music of the Union. [Applause]. I know that your trip to this coast will give you a knowledge of its wants, a knowledge obtained by mingling with the people. We bid you welcome to Carson, and wish you health, prosperity and happiness. I now introduce General John A. Logan, of Illinois.

GEN. LOGAN'S SPEECH.

"Mr. Chairman, ladies and gentlemen, I assure you that I appreciate, and so does my company, the cordial welcome I have received at your hands, and, in fact, the greeting we have received everywhere on this Coast. In response to the flattering remarks made here, I can only say that in my humble way I have only tried to do such good as I was able for my country, and I thank my God that I was able to do so. [Applause]. In coming to your Coast the Grand Army of the Republic had agreed to meet at San Francisco on its 20th anniversary. We came on that business alone, but there is not one man who came to the Encampment but goes back with a gladdened heart and full of surprises at the reception. Such a greeting, such a welcome and such hospitality to these old soldiers was never before equalled in the confines of this Government. [Applause]. It voiced the sentiments of your loyal, patriotic people who were loyal to the genius of our institutions and the flag of the country. [Applause]. This greeting was not for any one man or any one thousand men, but it was because when this Government racked in the throes of rebellion and treason couched at the foot of the flag, these people came forth, not for pay, honor or fame, but they fought because they loved the flag of their fathers and were determined that that flag should be unfurled over every foot of territory in the Republic. [Cheers]. When we first acquired our independence we had not one-fourth of the territory which we have since won, and we all know that one division meant a dozen more, and in time the triumph of the Calhoun theory meant as many Governments as we had States. The people said no, and we went to the front singing 'John Brown's Body' and nothing could stay the tide. [Cheers]. It was a memory of this that caused the people of the Pacific Coast to open hearts and hands, and every soldier who goes home will go feeling that he owes this people a debt of gratitude for kindness, and they will teach their children how the people treated the old veterans. There are others who deserve kindness and gratitude; people old and young who gave aid at home, and with prayers and work guided the boys in the front. Eastern people do not understand why this State should be so large and its population so small. Let them remember that when the Government was a beggar on its knees, the pick and shovel of the Nevada miners did more to support the Treasury than many of the older States. [Cheers]. Without Nevada it would have been impossible to have returned to specie payment. [Cheers] The mingling of the East and West has caused us all to learn much of each other. Many of the men who came to this Coast on a visit have come to stay as citizens. [Applause]. I have learned much of your wants and requirements. A man who legislates for his own little district runs in a very small groove. If I am in a position to legislate for this Coast I can assist greatly from my experience here. One of the first men I met here was your old friend Senator Stewart. I learned to love and respect him for his genius and ability, and his warm feeling for his friends. [Applause]. You have the people here to give your State name and credit abroad. Coming over the mountains from the Lake we learned many new things, and when we leave we will say, 'Like California, like Nevada.' [Applause]. When we meet again we hope to still see you enjoying prosperity and happiness, revering the flag and respecting the laws of the country." [Cheers].

GEN. ALGER.

Gov. Alger of Michigan was next introduced, and made a short, pointed address, which was loudly applauded. He paid a glowing tribute to Custer Post and the General after which it was named. The speaker said he left his State the greenest Governor that ever traveled, and he had had his eyes opened. He also said that there were two things in the West he did not like—Mormon and Pagans. He said we ought to do without polygamists and Chinamen, and as the cheers of the audience went up he turned to Logan and nodded, remarking as he did so, "there's a cue for you to take back home," which the crowd received with applause. His speech was received with mingled laughter and applause. After the speeches the audience pressed forward to shake hands with Gen. and Mrs. Logan, and the old Mexican soldiers were pleasantly received. The sumptuous entertainment at the Tallac was paid for by D. L. Bliss.

ALL SORTS.

Gov. Adams took no part in the reception.

—WANTED—To rent a piano. Apply at this office.

—The Garrard Club have placed a boycott on Gen. Logan.

—Adolph Jacobs, the old time tailor and repairer, advertises in another column.

—Mrs. J. Robertson of this city has opened a boarding and lodging house near the R. R. shops.

—The Democrats last evening were careful to avoid Logan.

—That's just the way they acted during the war.

—The present corps of school teachers now engaged in this county are faithful and efficient. Let the people see that they remain where they are.

THE GARRARD CLUB.

Something of its Aims and Purpose.

The APPEAL suggests the following platform for the Garrard Club: Whereas, We, the forty members of the Garrard Club, are wearied of the manner in which the city of Carson is run,

Resolved, That we turn the city upside down and have a new deal.

That the V. & T. R. R. Company employs 150 men and pays them high wages, in consequence of which we denounce it as an enemy to the working men, and pledge ourselves to do all we can to defeat any political nominations it may have any hand in.

As politics ought to cut no figure in our schemes we have decided to be strictly non-Partisan. That, is, of course, to such an extent that we will under no circumstances ally ourselves with Republican clubs, vote at Republican primaries, nor in any way give aid and comfort to the Republican party.

That whereas Major Garrard has held various public offices for the last twenty-five years. We hereby consider him as the only true friend of the working men.

Being that the Carson newspapers are run exclusively by horse-thieves and robbers, we have resolved to patronize a paper managed by some one upon whom we can strictly rely.

Believing that the payment of debts, licenses and taxes to be the work of an enemy to the people we have decided to admit into our ranks only such persons who do not pay taxes, licenses or borrowed money. That we limit our number to 40 and drive capital, enterprise and industry away from this city as fast as we propose the motto "The Chinese Must Go," as our battle cry, while we shall take good care to see that none of them shall go until after the election.

That the Smelling Committee is hereby enjoined to keep them here until further notice.

Resolved,—That every man who minds his own business, pays his taxes and works for a living, be considered a pro-Chinese and placed under boycott.

A Boycotted Favored.

The other day a boycotter accompanied by a carpet bagger called at a business house in this city and demanded that the house cease advertising in the APPEAL.

The reply was short and to the point. The business men simply remarked: "I have done business with the APPEAL for some years, and the first of every month I present my bill and get my money. Now you have owed me two dollars for over a year, and I never could get you to pay. You tell me that I will lose your custom if I do not order out my advertisement, and your friends' custom. If you will settle your bill and get your friends to settle theirs, I will take out my advertisement. Here are the bills," and the merchant showed him a lot of old thumb worn bills, not worth 10 cents on the dollar. It is needless to say that the boycotter left in short order.

To be boycotted by such a gang ought to be considered a blessing by any business man. They simply run on tick from one year's end to the other, dodge licenses and taxes, and then howl about the extravagance of the county and city government. They are notorious as frauds and lead beats, and are simply pestiferous parasites upon the commercial body. They contribute no more to the progress of the county than do the coyotes in the hills, and bear the same relation to the regular producers that bedbugs do to beef cattle.

A Valuable Remedy.

Brandreth's Pills have been used by millions of human beings. Their success is founded upon the theory of reason, and an attentive observation of symptoms of disease. Whatever makes bad digestion breeds disease, and whatever makes good digestion cures disease. Brandreth's Pills make good digestion, purify the blood, and remove all bad humors out of the body by the organs of the stomach and bowels. They act in harmony with vital action and work of nutrition; the strength increases, the skin and the eye become clear, and the symptoms of the malady are surely rendered milder by their use. They are harmless for all ages and conditions.

Letter from Sacramento.

TO THE EDITOR:

The Capital City of California presents many interesting sights, but few are more so than the store of Weinstock & Lubin. The history of their business reads almost like a romance. Started in a miniature store, with a capital of but a few hundred dollars, and in the face of strong competition, it has, in eleven years, increased the extent of its ground floor area more than a hundred fold, the number of its clerks from one to one hundred and fifty and sixty; has completely outstripped its rivals, and is now one of the largest general retail stores in the United States.

Long ago people predicted that on account of its already large business, that further growth was impossible. But it has grown, and it is growing. Indeed, the recent increase in its business has been larger proportionally than for a number of years. This, undoubtedly, is because time has solidified and perfected its organization, added to its experience, and proven to the people that its principles are as steady and tried as they are just.

In a newspaper, now worn and dingy with age, we find the germ of these principles aptly stated in one of the store announcements. "We aim to treat our customers as we would wish to be treated if we were in their place." How much this has meant to the millions who have dealt with this store since it was started, or how much it continues to mean to-day, no one can tell who has never given the methods a personal trial.

Even in distant cities and foreign lands people can be found who have never visited Sacramento, but whose confidence in this House and in the superiority of its goods can't be shaken. They know by experience what they think or speak.

One almost feels that with such a brilliant record, a House like this would rest content. Not so; there is still work to be done—there is still chance to provide the people of the Pacific Coast with better goods than as a whole they now get—still room to lower the prices they pay. What store is fit to undertake the work as this store? And it proposes to do it. In fact, it is doing it.

Even distant merchants feel the potency of its influence. It is an interesting and suggestive fact, that there are many people who have never heard of this store, but who to-day are being served by local dealers better and cheaper than they would be, but for its existence. In a word, public opinion is being slowly revolutionized as to the treatment in justice due from dealer to customer.

While the Store is thus accomplishing much indirectly, it is in direct work that its principles and methods shine brightest. It stands at all times as ready to serve the wants, perchance, of the distant widow, who may send for twenty-five cents worth of goods, as it does the banker or capitalist who enters its doors to spend hundreds of dollars. Neither favor, affection, patronage or friendship, can influence the determination to treat all customers alike.

Furthermore, people know that in sending to Weinstock & Lubin, Sacramento, who deal direct with the leading manufacturers of Europe and America—that they get the benefit of latest styles and fashions—and prices as low and lower than those of other dealers.

There is hardly anything which this House does not keep—from a toothpick to a bridal outfit. Dry Goods, Clothing, Millinery, Shoes, Hats, Notions, etc., all command its earnest attention. A large Illustrated Catalogue of its goods, prices, etc., is sent free to any address.

Facts are but food for reflection. The lesson they teach in this case is plain. DO NOT REMAIN UNACQUAINTED WITH THE ADVANTAGES PRESENTED BY THIS STORE.
